

Shrubs & Shearing

Why shearing is NOT an acceptable pruning practice for most shrubs:

- Works against the natural form of the shrub
- Cuts are not made at appropriate places on the stem tissue, causing decay and decline of stems
- Causes an "eggshell" appearance of the foliage which shades out the inner portions of the shrub
- Since most of the foliage is removed, the shrub must sprout new leaves, which is a huge energy expense

Shearing Damage

Sprouting due to shearing

Two Amur Maples

Naturally Pruned Maple

Sheared Maple

Minnesota's 1st Accredited Treecare Company